Customer Reviews

Recently I received a copy of The Imposter by Suzanne Woods Fisher from Revell to review. I was eager to begin as the story is set in Stoney Ridge Pennsylvania as are so many of Suzanne's books. The Imposter is the first in her new series, The Bishop's Family. As I began to think of the story I wondered who the imposter might be. Would it be just one person and would I guess it right off the bat as an easy mystery? No, not so quick. The book is a good study in human nature and the reader will be surprised to learn about the characters in the story and perhaps a little bit about themselves. Katrina Stoltzfus had not been happy since her family moved to Stoney Ridge. She was in love with John who came into her life after her recuperation from the terrible accident that killed her mother. Encouraged by Bishop Elmo Beiler to come preach at Stoney Ridge, her father David pulled up stakes in Ohio and moved the family there for a fresh start. Our story begins after Katrina's recent breakup with John, the boyfriend she unwillingly left in Ohio. she is despondent, not feeling well and just not bouncing back like she should be. Bishop Elmo has died suddenly leaving his wife Thelma who is on the brink of recreating her livelihood by growing commercial moss. Katrina agrees to help Thelma, thus forging a strong relationship between the two that will last a lifetime. When Katrina goes to Thelma's she meets Andy Miller, the handsome new handyman. He seems to know a lot about the moss business but appears nearly every time Katrina turns around and is full of admiration for her. His interest in her is flattering but she can't let herself trust these feelings; not after John so recently broke her heart.
